Various programs on Human value development such as Professional Ethics, Ethics in Life, Human values and its impact on society was organised and conducted for students of APDCH by Students' Welfare committee.

Every profession has its particular rules, regulations and principles.

A person when choosing a job or a field must know that specific profession rules and ethics. Ethics means principles of something. In different roles, they have ethics according to their knowledge about the situation, how people belonging to that profession should behave.

Professional ethics is guidance for people working in a particular profession that tells them what they supposed to do and what they are not supposed to do while working there. A particular profession has its specific behavior, and everyone must follow them.

All are supposed to behave the way a person should according to what their professional ethics says. It shows how much they know about the job, your passion for the work.

Some of the ethical advices to the students were:

Wait before responding. Let it sink in. Get your thoughts straight. Type out what you want to say and then email it to yourself. Sleep on it overnight.

Read it over before responding. Send the appropriate response. Honesty, caring and compassion, integrity, and personal responsibility are values that can help behave ethically when faced with ethical dilemmas in personal life.
